PHILLIPS DOES SOME GREAT PITCH-ING AND HITTING.

And Indianapolis Wins Another from Minneapolis-Parvin Touched Up Just at the Right Time.

One of the prettiest games of the season was that of yesterday, between Indianapolis and Minneapolis. It was a regulation pitchers' battle and Phillips carried off the honors, though, with the exception of one inning, Parvin gave him a close rub. The long thin twirler from the Northwest had all his speed with him yesterday and he crowded it on so effectively that it was not until the seventh inning that Sharsig's men could connect successfully with his lightning curves. He was unsteady enough in the seventh to give two bases on balls which, with two triples and a double yielded five runs and settled the game. Phillips was at his best and after the first inning the visitors could do absolutely nothing with him. They would have been shut out but for Westlake's wild throw in the opening inning. That error, with two singles, gave them their only runs. In the other eight innings they secured but three singles and never had a show to score.

Shields did some sensational work at second, one of his stops, that of Parvin's grounder in the fifth, being phenomenal. McCarthy made a beautiful catch of Fraser's long fly in the seventh and Motz captured Werden's short fly to right in the sixth when it looked out of his reach. Crooks and Hines did some clever fielding for Minneapolis. Phillips loomed up with his bat, which was responsible for three of the runs scored by Indianapolis. The visitors were first at bat and, after Crooks had gone out from Mills to Motz, Burns and Hines hit safe to left but neither would have second had Westleke and thrown have scored had Westlake not thrown to first to catch Hines napplng. The throw was out of Motz's reach and the ball went far into right field, Burns scoring from sec-ond and Hines reaching third. The latter came in on Werden's sacrifice, after which Hulen was retired from Shields to Motz. In the last half, Parvin's wild throw gave Henry a life and a passed ball, with Bur-rell's overthrow, let him around to third. Motz got a base on balls. Meanwhile, Mcthy and Gray had been retired an Mills struck out, ending the inning. Roat's umble and Milis's bad throw gave two Minneapolis men lives in the second, but they Singles by Phillips, McCarthy and Gray earned Indianapolis a run in the fifth. forced McCarthy at second and was patted around to third where, with two out, he was caught by Burrell's bluff to throw to second on Motz, who had forced Gray out. Shields started the Indianapolis half of the seventh with a base on balls and Phillips lifted one of those old-time three-baggers to right scoring him. McCarthy reached first on balls and Henry hit to left center for two bases, sending Phillips home. The hit would have been a triple but McCarthy was afraid to get far away from first because of Fraser's lesperate attempt to get under the ball. It looked for a moment as though he might reach it and when it dropped beyond him McCarthy could only get as far as third. Gray was easily retired on an attempt to sacrifice, but Motz drove the ball to right for three bases, sending two runs in and scoring himself on Mills's grounder to Hu-len. The latter threw wild to first, giving Mills a life, but he was doubled a mor later by Westlake's grounder to Crooks. Sharsig's men did nothing in the eighth and did not, of course, have to play their half of the ninth. Minneapolis was never dangerous after the first, it being a case of one, two, three in almost every inning. Crooks and Werden struck out during the closing innings, which tickled the crowd imnensely. No More Nervous Headaches. The Lyon Medicine Company: Dear Sirs—For years I was afflicted with stomach troubles and severe nervous head-aches. Your remedy, suggested by friends, has cured me. My stomach troubles are gone and also the headaches. MRS. LOUISA WEAVER, 820 North Illinois, Indianapolis.

A Lump of Lead in His Stomach

H. S. Buchanan, decorator, 126 West Sixth street, Indianapolis, says: "For years after eating I would feel as if I had a lump of lead in my stomach. This, with a sourness rising into my mouth, would make me feel miserable beyond the power of words to tell. I have taken one box of LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS and it has done me a world of good. I can confidently recommend it to any one afflicted with dyspepsia or stomach trouble of any kind.

MRS. MAY WRIGHT SEWALL ON THE WOMAN'S TRIENNIAL COUNCIL.

Will Meet in Washington and Have Representatives from Many Different Foreign Countries.

New York Recorder. Mrs. May Wright Sewall, president of the National Council of Women, and vice president of the International Council that convenes in Washington, D. C., in 1895, has been a guest of Mrs. Rachel Foster council, now so rapidly maturing. The approaching event, fraught with so much interest to the advanced feminine world, is the second triennial meeting, to be held in Metzerolt Music Hall, Washington, from Feb. 17 to March 2, 1895. "So you want to know something of the coming sessions of the National Council," remarked Mrs. May Wright Sewall.

"Well, you know, that is just what we are arranging now. It promises to be one of the most auspicious conventions of women that has ever yet been held. Invitations will be sent to all the officers of the International Council, many of whom will undoubtedly accept, and that will mean, you know, the presence of some of our most distinguished foreigners. The Countess of Aberdeen, who is president of the International Council, is positively coming, as are also Florence Fenwick, Lady Henry Somerest, Mrs. Agnes McLaren, Mrs. Alice Lyle Scatchard and Mrs. Ormiston Chant. Then, since the organization of our National Council in 1888, similar associations have been formed in France, Belgium, Switzerland, Canada and Germany; while Italy, through the efforts of Signora Fanny Zampini Salazar and under the patronage of Queen Margherita, is taking the first steps toward the formation of such a body; and the King of Siam has officially expressed his desire that a woman's council be inaugurated in his country. We shall hope for the president and at least one delegate from each of these bodies. An interesting feature will be the attendance of a committee recently appointed in Garage of a committee, recently appointed in Ger-many, to inquire into the condition of women all over the world. Of course, to American women the sessions will be of especial interest, representing, as they will, the work of so many individual bodies as well as of individuals. You may count up-on the attendance of all the notable women of the United States.

day sessions will be occupied in the morning by business relative to the body as a whole. We have any quantity of new plans that I am going to tell you of later. In the afternoon we shall discuss large questions of our day and need-we havn't really decided just what as yet, but they will be subjects of widespread and momentous interest to both men and women. At the evening sessions we will give each particular body making up the National Council a chance to exploit its own achievements, but this is by no means to be the chief interest of the convention, however interesting it may prove as a minor consideration. I wish you would make a special point of that, please, for so many peo-ple seem to think that belonging to the council will identify them with some "ism" or other, whereas it won't at all.

"The fundamental reason for the council is the bringing together of national bodies distinctly different in their purpose. You, as a member of a national association, for example, are not committed to woman's suffrage, or kindergartening, or temperance or the Frace Bartist Church because ance, or the Free Baptist Church because your association joins the council to which those others belong. But by so joining you and your association are forwarding the interests of your sex and making bet-ter known to the general public the magnitude and variety of woman's work to humanity. That is the object of the counand all that it asks of its constituents

NOT A SOCIETY OF ISMS.

"The convention will last two weeks. The

And the same principle applies to the State and local councils that are springing up all over the country. They are not formed for the purpose of bringing together representatives of different societies, but for the purpose of bringing together represen-tatives of societies engaged in different nes of work. "The State and local councils? They are, in the latter instance, composed of local organizations, each having a distinct and different purpose, while the State council is made up not of local councils but independent State organizations, each of which has its distinct end. And now something as to our new scheme of work. Ultimately, and, indeed, in all triennials subsequent to this one of 1895, it is expected that the national council convened formally will be as one body composed of two bodies, the upper and lower council, which will sit A SENATE AND HOUSE. "All propositions pertaining to local work will originate in the lower house; all measures passed will be sent to the upper house for consideration, while all propositions relating to national work must originate in the upper house and when passed there must be sent to the lower house for consideration. Thus no proposition or measure passed by either body will be binding upon the national council and become a part of its programm; until such measure is confirmed by the other body. "When the organization is completed the president and the delegate from each local council will sit in the lower house and the president and delegate from each national organization will sit in the upper house. State councils will be more closely allied to both local and national councils than either of these is to the other, and hence the president of each State council will sit in the upper house at triennial sessions, while the delegate from each State council will sit in the lower house during such formal sessions, and thus representatives of State councils will have a voice in orig-inacing measures in both houses." "What is the present constituency of the 'Seventeen organizations and more than 700,000 women. It was organized in Washington, D. C., in 1838, the fortieth anniversary of the Women's Rights convention held in Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1843. The seven lines of work that it now represents include religious, philanthropic, education, rofessional, social reform, moral reform and government reform. By the way, you musn't get the impression that the 'local' and 'State' councils are yet in process of formation. We hope, of course, for many more to be organized, but already there is in Minneapolis, Minn., a local council com-posed of forty organizations; one of twen-ty in Portland, Me.; one of thirty-eight in Memphis, Tenn., and others equally active in Merryville, Tenn.; Fort Wayne and Quincy, Ind., and elsewhere. Our local council in Indianapolis numbers fifty-three organizations, and just to show you the variety and multiplicity of interests repesented, I may mention that it comprises associations so different in intent as the 'Musical Matinee.' the 'Woman's Club' and the 'Laundry Girls' Union.'

"What does our local councils do? Well, when we see the need of clean streets or better sewerage or any other public beneg-fit, we appoint committees to look after the want, see that it is at least remedled for the time being, and then prevail upon the municipal legislation to enforce it alto-

EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK. "Now." continued Mrs. Sewall, "perhaps the most important labor of the National Council is accomplished by its committees. We have four of these, the first of walch, with Mrs. Lucia E. Blount, of Washington, as chairman, concerns itself with equal pay for equal work, and we have never yet found the woman, however conservative, who isn't interested in that reform. It is our purpose to secure a law requiring the national government to make no distinc-tion of sex in the payment of its employes, which will establish a precedent hardly to be ignored by lesser employes. Our sec-ond committee is on divorce reform. Very many people when they hear that we have such a committee as that at once condemn the council and its workings altogether. But they do so wantonly, for what we want form it. The marriage and divorce laws in as they were fifty years ago, whereas individuals and conditions are very different from what they were then. In New York, for instance, a wife can only obtain a di-vorce from her husband upon the ground of marital infidelity. He has entire legal right to beat and desert and in every way maltreat her, but unless she has proof posttive of his unfaithfulness, she cannot, by the laws of that State, separate from him. Therefore, what we and the hardworking chairman of that committee, Mrs. Eller Battelle Dietrick, are striving for is the ap pointment of women upon all State com-missions (now consisting of men alone) working to change existing divorce and "To this end we have sent petitions to every Governor of every State. For it there is any one subject upon which women may feel themselves qualified to both know and say something it is the question of marriage and yet, throughout the Union, the marriage laws are made, amended and revised solely by men. DRESS REFORM ALSO. "Our third committee is in the hands of that capable woman, Mrs. Frances E. Russ sell, and is devoted to dress-not the complete and final settlement of the question, but the promotion of discussion about it, and the arousing of public sentiment in the direction of health, beauty and freedom in its behalf. Our circulars are sent to every woman's college in the land, and we are open to suggestions from all, for we don't claim, for instance, that this dress Then Mrs. Sewall gave a downward glance at her own attractive costume of Nile green and white. The gown was fine organdie flocked with a small pink flower and made over a pale Nile green underdress. It had a yoke finished off with ruffles at the wrists of its billowy sleeves. and it was confined at the waist with a narrow Nile green sash ribbon loosely tied at the back. From this sash ribbon swung a light leather, rather business-like bag, and Mrs. Sewall's feet were incased in dark green leather shoes that laced at the side. The general effect, with soft, silvery gray hair, was both pleasing and graceful even if the wearer did disclaim for it the attribute of "perfect."

"I want also to say a word," concluded
Mrs. Sewall, "about the women of the South. You know I have been among them all this summer, and the interest that felt there concerning the condition of wom en is simply surprising. Why, the whole country is full of it, and not the women alone, but the men. I was, of course, not there in any official or business capacity, and I hadn't dreamed of publing the cause in any way, but people whom you wouldn't came to me and begged me to speak to them. And what interest and sympathy they expressed, assuring me that such was the prevailing feeling throughout the country. It did my heart good, and I am confident that just this matter of women's having a voice in national affairs will do more toward healing sectional differences than any other sort of national legislation.' Both Mrs. Sewall and Mrs. Avery intend to resign from their respective offices at the coming triennial meeting. This will be a serious blow to the council, for it will have to look high and low and far and wide before it will again find two such thoroughly capable and inspiring workers.

TO PUSH THE SUIT.

C., H. & D. Officials Will Insist on Dame ages from the City.

William Green, vice president and general manager of the Cincinanti, Hamilton & Dayton, was in the city yesterday, and had a conference with Addison C. Harris and other attorneys who will be associated in the suit against the city, and through it the Union Railway Company, for damages on account of building the Virginiaavenue viaduot. The company claims the viaduct cuts the C., H. & D. elty freight depot off from the business streets. The closing of Alabama street and the building of the viaduct has completely cut off the freight depot, the road claims. The con-ference ended by Mr. Waite authorizing the attorneys to at once begin to push the soit. Mr. Green stated that he had leased the old Bee-line depot on Alabama street until July, 1895, and by that time expects to have a new freight depot ready for oc-If the City Council holds that Alabama street has not been legally vacated city officials think the C., H. & D. road will have no grounds for its suit.
